University of She ield Digital

Psit

Digitised content held by the University Libraries Special Collection, Heritage and Archive service and University Archives. This includes material from the National Fairground and Circus Archives. Master copies only.

Research Outputs by the University of Sheffield, including:

Research Publications deposited in White Rose Research Online, WRRO

Theses deposited in White Rose ETheses Online, WREO

Theses deposited with the University Library which include data on digital containers

Research Data and related material deposited in the University's Digital Repository, ORDA

Information created in digital form by the University for business purposes and is identified in the University's Retention Schedule as requiring long-term preservation. For example, the core student and Staff Records.

3.3 The University also commit to preserving associated metadata which supports digital content in scope.

The following types of digital content are currently out of scope of the Digital Preservation Policy:

Any digital material which is not intended for permanent or long-term retention

Active research data. Guidance for the management and collection of research data at the University is via the Library Research Data Management and the Research Data teams.

Library collections including eBooks (electronic books), journals and articles made available via the Library catalogue that are not digitally published by the University

embed it vvv

7.7 By engaging in active preservation, the University will be able to make informed decisions about what necessary steps need to be taken to preserve accessibility of content. Permanent audit trails will be maintained to detail when actions such as refreshment of content, migration of content, or emulation of soft

ISO 111

DPC Competency Assessment Framework:
https://www.dpconline.org/digipres